Diagnostic score: 82%

Solid B1/B2 foundation — no A2-level gaps

✓ Already solid — don't spend time here

Prepositions, word order, countability/agreement, basic past tense, first conditional — all 100%. His foundation is stronger than "needs help with English" suggests; the gaps are narrow and specific.

🎯 Focus for this session (ranked)

	PATTERN	WHAT HE DOES	TARGET
1	2nd conditional result clause	"If I had more time, I would have learnt... "	would + verb (not "would have")
2	Articles — uncountable nouns	"the teacher gave me a good advice "	drop "a" — advice/information are uncountable
3	Articles — definite "the" drop	"climate over Bahrain is nice" / "I will continue IGCSE system "	"the climate," "the IGCSE system"
4	Present perfect + since/for	"I know him since three years"	"I've known him for three years"

Speaking prompts that elicit these: "If you could change one thing about your new school, what would it be?" (2nd conditional) · "Describe your room / your new house" (articles) · "How long have you had your phone / known your best friend?" (present perfect + for/since)

Session style: brief, low-friction — he responds well to short sessions. Prefers being corrected in the moment over drilled MCQ. Give explanations in English. He self-corrects well once a rule is named — a quick "would + verb, not would have, in this type of sentence" is usually enough.

B1 floor is clean — no A1-level gaps

✓ Already solid — don't spend time here

Prepositions, conditionals, question formation (do-support), than/that comparisons — all 100% today. Conditionals even showed up correctly, unprompted, in free writing. Broader functional English than "struggling B1" suggests.

🎯 Focus for this session (ranked)

PATTERN	WHAT SHE DOES	TARGET
1 Irregular verbs — 3rd form (have + V3)	"I have never drive a car"	"driven" — see note below, may be improving fast
2 Definite article "the" — unique/specific things	"BTS is a most famous group" / "at weekend"	"the most famous," "at the weekend"
3 3rd-person -s agreement (statements)	"my brother hate k-pop"	"hates" — she gets this fine in questions, drops it in statements
4 Continuous aux-drop	"Look! It raining outside"	"it's raining" — she has the -ing, just drops "is"

Speaking prompts that elicit these: "Have you ever driven / eaten / seen...?" (3rd form) · "What's the most famous K-pop group?" / "What do you do at the weekend?" (the) · "What does your brother/sister like?" (3rd-person -s)

Good news on #1: a same-day teaching session (2026-07-01) got 5/6 on a mini-drill and 4/4 correct have+V3 use in free speech — the 0% diagnostic score may already be outdated. Worth a light re-check rather than heavy drilling.

Session style: keep it brief and encouraging — she disengages under pressure. Simple vocabulary, praise effort over accuracy, error-correction (explanation-led) rather than recognition drills for irregular verbs.
